INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH ASA PACKER,

The Opinions of the Democratic Candidate on the Political Questions--There should be a Reform in the Management of the State Finances—His Views on Constitutional Amendment.

A correspondent of the New York Sun has recently had a long interview with Asa Packer, from which we make as many extracts this morning as our space permits:

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Sept. 7th.—Way up in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania, where the picturesque Lehigh river forces its way through the narrowest gorge of the Blue mountains, nestles the town of Mauch Chunk.

Asa Packer, the favorite of the democratic party of Pennsylvania, is the man of mark who resides in this town. In it, and yet isolated from it. Asa Packer is a man of the people. Asa Packer's home is the home of Asa Packer's family. The one belongs to the many; the other to the one. While the home is in Mauch Chunk, it is distinct from Mauch Chunk—as distinct from the town as the green oasis of the broad, sandy plains of Sahara, is from the desert itself. The home is the abode of elegance, refinement, luxury, and ease. It monopolizes a commanding point on the hillside, wher ewealth has dug out a plain, and built terraces, and planted rare flowers, and cultivated choice shrubbery, and in the midst of this garden has reared a princely mansion and adorned its interior with costly furniture, capacious shelves lined with books, elegant pictures, and frescoes, statuary, and other works of art. This is the home of Asa Packer, located in the town of the coal miners, yet contrasting in every respect so conspicuously with the homes adjoining and surrounding it. And here Asa Packer's family lives.

THE STORY OF THE MAN OF MARK.

But who is Asa Packer?

A poor carpenter from Connecticut, leaving his native State in pursuit of employment; a busy, bustling, prosperous merchant in the wilds of Pennsylvania; an enterprising, pushing, adventurous operator in new schemes for the development of his adopted State; a great and successful coal miner; a founder of banks; a railroad king; a man of untold wealth, the result of honest toil, prudent living, and a sagacity unsurpassed.

Such is Asa Packer.

A MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

"Mr. Packer, will you ride down?" said the omnibus driver, reining up to the sidewalk, as he noticed the great man with his satchel headed toward the depot.

"No, I thank you; I can walk," was the reply.

"Better hurry then," said the driver, "time's most up."

"Judge, let me carry your satchel," said the pompous country squire, rushing up and clutching the baggage of the great man.

"Oh, no; I can carry it. It ain't heavy," replied Asa Packer; but the bag, nevertheless, was wrenched from his hand.

"Off again, Judge?" said the affable merchant, as he rushed out from his store to shake hands with the domestic stranger.

"Well good luck to you."

"Judge Packer," said I, abandoning all expectations of securing a more favorable opportunity, "I have made a diligent search for you, and run a long chase after you, but I do not see as I can run you down in private. Here is a note that will both introduce me and explain my visit." And I handed the great man a letter with which I had been favored by a personal friend of the man of mark.

The Judge—why he is called "Judge" I do not know—read the letter carefully. He pondered over it. He studied it. He seemed to be weighing the words of which it was composed. Finally he seemed to be satisfied with it, and turning a smiling face upon me he said:

"I am in somewhat of a hurry to catch the 12 o'clock train. It lacks ten minutes of the time now. If you will walk to the depot with me we can talk on the way."

Now, the distance from the centre of the town of Mauch Chunk to the depot of the Lehigh Valley road is not very great, nor is ten minutes much time in which to discuss the great political questions of the day. But as "half a loaf is better than no bread," I accepted the proposition with thanks, determined to make the most of the opportunity, at the same time dispatching a messenger to my hotel with a bank note to liquidate my bill, and an order for my satchel, so as to be prepared to follow up the opportunity if it promised well.

PERSISTENCE OF THE SUN CORRESPONDENT.

"How far north are you going, Judge?" I asked, in breathless haste.

"I'm going up into Susquehanna," he replied.

"How far can I go on this train and get back in time to catch the New York train to-night?"

"To Wilkesbarre."

"How long does it take to go to Wilkesbarre?"

"About three hours."

"Very well; then I'll get on the train with you, and we can talk as we go along."

"As you please," replied the Judge, "we'll get aboard at once then," and suiting the action to the word, we were both soon seated in a comfortably filled car, though we were fortunate in securing two vacant seats. The engine gave a parting shriek, the brakes were unloosed and the train sped away.

JUDGE PACKER'S BUSINESS VS HIS POLITICS.

JUDGE PACKER—For a number of years past, as you are probably aware, my private affairs and the business of the company with which I am connected have assumed an extent and importance to monopolize nearly my entire time and attention, forbidding me the opportunity to devote to current political questions the attention I would like to have given them; and now I re-enter public life not by my own wish but at a sacrifice of personal interests, in order to gratify my very partial friends, and in obedience to what I conceive to be the demands of my fellow-citizens and the public. For these reasons I must confess myself not fully prepared to discuss the general issues involved in national politics, but such opinions as I hold you and the public are welcome to.

DIDN'T WANT THE NOMINATION.

REPORTER—Do I understand you to say, Judge Packer, that you did not aspire to the Gubernatorial nomination?

JUDGE PACKER—Distinctly so, I never have changed the position I took in my Chambersburg letter, which was that, while I had no aspirations for the office of Governor, yet if the nomination should be voluntarily tendered me by my fellow citizens, I would feel it my duty to accept, although at the sacrifice of my personal interests. I have always held that the State and my country have claims paramount to mere personal considerations.

THE BITTERNESS OF THE CANVASS.

REPORTER—Are you devoting much of your time to the canvass?

JUDGE PACKER—But very little. The question of my election now rests with my fellow-citizens. I suppose that the party that has placed me in nomination will make all my merits known if I have any, while the party opposing me will certainly not fail to make my demerits known. I am somewhat wedded to the antiquated notion that the office should seek the man, not the man the office.

REPORTER—I observe that the canvass opens with something of personal bitterness in it.

JUDGE PACKER—If so, it must be wholly on the other side. So far as I am concerned, or my friends who may be influenced by my wishes, everything of a personal nature is and will be rigorously avoided. We have no desire to assail the character of the chief executive of the Commonwealth, much less the reputation of a soldier. But the official acts of an administration are legitimate subjects of criticism.

THE GROUNDWORK OF THE FIGHT.

REPORTER—What are the leading features of Governor Geary's administration with which you take issue?

JUDGE PACKER—The financial policy of that administration has not tended to strengthen the credit of the State to the extent it might have done, as the reports of the State Treasurer during the last three years, in the item of receipts, show that at least twice the amount of public debt might have been liquidated that has been. The large balance remaining in the Treasury from year to year, amounting to about two millions of dollars, should have been appropriated to the payment of so much of the public debt. All well-conducted and successful private corporations, as for instance, the railroad with which I am identified, make it a matter of economy to appropriate promptly all their available surplus funds to the extinguishment of their indebtedness, thus saving large sums in interest money; or if that is not needed, they use their means in the improvement of their facilities for business. In my opinion the financial affairs of the Commonwealth should be administered by those to whom they are intrusted upon the same principle that they should govern these private affairs. No individual possessed of large means would be considered wise or sagacious did he allow any considerable portion of his money to lie idle in his hands. Such a policy is not merely open to censure upon business principles, but is contrary to the injunctions of the Scripture, that we should make diligent use of the means instrusted to us.

REPORTER—I understand you to mean, Judge Packer, that the same rule that has governed you through life in your private affairs and ministered to your success, you would apply to the management of the affairs of the State were they intrusted to you?

JUDGE PACKER—Most certainly I do. I manage my railroad affairs precisely the same as if they were wholly my own. I would manage the State affairs upon the same principles. The same rule that has given me personal success in life has made my railroad a success, and would undoubtedly make the administration of the State a success.

DISTRIBUTE THE SPOILS WITH RIGID ECONOMY.

REPORTER—But, Judge, you have no party favorites to reward, or party paupers to provide for, in the management of your own affairs, or those of your railroad.

JUDGE PACKER—The public service requires numerous officers. It is perfectly proper, in filling those offices, for the appointing power to select its own friends and supporters. But in so doing there should be no greater number appointed than is absolutely necessary. Why the State should be called upon to afford sinecures to political drones more than a mere corporation surpasses my comprehension. As I said in my letter of acceptance, the expenses of the State government should be reduced to the lowest practicable point, thereby lessening the burdens and taxation of the people.

THE PARDONING POWER--CLASS LEGISLATION.

REPORTER—Are these the only questions involved in this canvass?

JUDGE PACKER—No. There are two others, which I regard as of paramount importance to the safety of the citizen and the virtue of the State. I refer to the indiscriminate use of the pardoning power and special or class legislation. While the one is an incentive to crime unless cautiously and sparingly used, the other engenders corruption in the State, whereby the name of legislator becomes a reproach. Against these evils, reaching a magnitude that has cast a dark shadow over the State, every good citizen should protest.

REPORTER—How would you remedy these evils?

JUDGE PACKER—I would exercise clemency only where deserved, and upon the clearest showing, and would not hesitate to exercise the executive prerogative of the veto against all special legislation that is conceived or enacted in a corrupt spirit, or that can be covered by general laws. In your own State of New York you have had some experience of the evils of this class of legislation, and the extent to which it can be carried; and the present eminent executive of that State has shown what influence a Governor may exert in counteracting and checking this evil, which is even greater with us than with you.

THE RAILROAD MONOPOLY.

REPORTER—Do not the vast railroad corporations of this State virtually create a great and powerful monopoly; and does not this monopoly exert an undue influence upon the legislation of the State?"

JUDGE PACKER—They might create a monopoly dangerous to the State but for the spirit of competition for the trade of the West and the Pacific coast, as well as that of our own State, which is so great and steadily increasing, tending to a diffusion rather than a consolidation of power. And to this end the State may very properly and safely foster and encourage the extension and completion, by necessary branches, of these trunk roads. No other influence can be so potential in the development of the resources of the State as such lines of improvement. Rich as we are in our great mineral deposits, they would avail us little without the means of transportation. Being promptly identified with one of these lines of road, it may be supposed that I speak as a railroad man, and in the interests of the railroads alone. But I am confident that no consideration growing out of such a relation could warp my judgment.

Changing a Vote.

The Northumberland Conference adopted no rules for their government. They were therefore acting under the general principles of parliamentary law when the 202d ballot was taken and at all other times. By that law a member of the conference had an undoubted right (of which his colleagues could not deprive him) to change his vote before a final result on any ballot was announced by the chair. We give again the plain and strong words of the general rule applicable to the case upon the high authority of Barclay's Digest.

"A MEMBER HAS THE RIGHT TO CHANGE HIS VOTE BEFORE THE DECISION OF THE QUESTION HAS BEEN FINALLY AND CONCLUSIVELY PRONOUNCED BY THE CHAIR." (Barclay's Digest, p. 197, ed. 1865.)

This rule is grounded in the practice of the earliest times.

The ancient method of taking the vote in the Roman Senate was:—"The President of the body separated the members into two parties opposite to each other, (according to their opinions upon the question to be determined,) in order to the more easy counting of the votes. "After they had voted any one might retrace his opinion by passing over and ranging himself with the contrary party." (Sutherland's Manual, p. 193, 5th edit.)

The seceder's candidate quotes the special rule of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives limiting the general right of changing a vote. This would be to the purpose if the Conference had adopted the rules of that House for their government, which they did not. They could only have such a rule or act upon it after they had adopted it.

It is then undeniable that Mr. Withington had a clear right to change his vote. Although the Conference by a two-thirds vote authorized him to make the change, their consent was quite unnecessary. It was superfluous because it could add nothing to a right which was perfect before. But we do not think the resolution of the Conference was untimely; for it gave openly and distinctly the sanction of a two thirds majority to what was done and was well calculated to satisfy fully a sense of justice and fairness in all persons not familiar with parliamentary law. And it would have conferred authority upon Mr. Withington to change his vote if he had not otherwise possessed it.

The Assault on Senator Jackson.

The Danville Intelligencer, through the kindness of its stockholders managed by Thos. Chalfant, makes an inexcusable assault on Senator Jackson in its issue of the 10th inst., asserting that he voted for the "Herdic Bills" &c. The cause of this attack is Mr. Jackson's friendship for Mr. Buckalew, and the solid support given the latter by Sullivan county. As to the "Herdic Bill" it is sufficient for us to say that Mr. Jackson voted against it, as the record shows.

But let us prick this bubble a little, for a little ventilation may be of service. The passage of the appropriation for the Danville Asylum is due to the efforts of Senator Jackson aided by Representative Scott. Chalfant as an outsider found himself absolutely without influence in a matter where there was a contest, but was ashamed to confess as much to the parties who sent him there.

We were in Harrisburg at the time, and know that such was the case. When the Appropriation Bill came up in the Senate it was in danger of defeat. Jackson engrafted the appropriation for the Danville Asylum on the bill there, as it had been stricken out in the House. He could not vote against the Bill without endangering the appropriation to the Normal School here, and absolutely losing that to the Danville Asylum. In this dilemma he appealed for advice to a number of his constituents. They unanimously advised him to support the interests of his own district. Among these who did this was THOMAS CHALFANT. With tears in his eyes he besought the Senator to cast the very votes for which he now abuses him. When the latter stated that they were objectionable, and would place him in a false position before his constituents, this would-be Senator proudly said, "I will see that you are defended and taken care of before the people; I will justify your action should you be assailed." Need we add that when the expected assault did come, neither Chalfant nor his paper ever uttered a word in defence or explanation of the course of Senator Jackson?

Another point, and we leave this question for the present. Chalfant finding that his efforts in this matter were worse than useless, concluded to take a pleasure trip to Philadelphia. In order that the good people of Danville, however, should remain under the impression that he was at his post, and that he was the mighty instrument which controlled Legislatures, he induced our good-natured Senator to agree that upon the passage of the Appropriation Bill a telegram announcing the fact should be sent to Danville in his (Chalfant's) name. This was done, and up to this time our neighbors have been under the impression that Chalfant secured the appropriation, staid in the lobbies until it was done, and then triumphantly announced the result to his wondering countrymen. Such genius is too great to be limited by a State Senate.

HON. CHARLES R. BUCKALEW has been nominated for the State Senate from the Fifteenth District, composed of the counties of Northumberland, Montour, Columbia and Sullivan. A better nomination could not have been made. The District was represented in the last Legislature by Hon. Geo. D. Jackson, Democrat. There is some difficulty in the District, the friends of Mr. Chalfant claiming that he is entitled to the nomination, and unless the question is harmoniously settled it is likely that Mr. Chalfant will run on an independent ticket. We trust that wise counsel will prevail, and that no such thing will be done. Mr. Buckalew is confident of his success.—Clinton Democrat.

A Nice Arrangement.

The Montour American, the Radical organ of Montour county, in speaking of the Senatorial question in this District says:

The Republicans will have a good chance to elect a Senator. The vote in this, the fifteenth district, stands about 10,000 Democratic, and about 7,000 Republican. So that in case the two Democratic candidates make a fair and equal division of their vote, each will have 5,000, and thus give the Republican nominee 2,000 majority. Some of the Republicans in this quarter seem disposed to support Mr. Chalfant. But before this is done with any degree of unanimity, he must give certain pledges with good security for their redemption. He must treat Gov. Geary fairly and honestly, and if he could go for the XVth Amendment, it would help him. After all, we think it safest to support a Republican candidate, especially when there is a chance of success. Republicans naturally feel a little "skittish" about aiding and abetting the election of a Copperhead, even if he does peel off his old skin.

We have no special interest in the question as to which of the opposing candidates is the regular nominee. We care nothing about the motives of Mr. M'Ninch in deserting his friend, nor the influences that were brought to bear upon the Conference. We have only to do with the facts of the situation as they are presented before us.

Firstly, we believe that Mr. Chalfant can only be elected by securing the Republican vote, and that may be impossible.

Secondly, the only certain plan that we can see to defeat Mr. Buckalew, is for the dissatisfied Democrats to join with the Republicans in electing our candidate. These, with our 7,000 votes, will give us the Senator by from one to two thousand majority.

We therefore urge our conferees to select a good Republican candidate, and once again this Egyptian district may have a Republican Senator.

From the above it will be seen that the whole ambition of the Radical party is to defeat Mr. Buckalew. They fear the advent of a man of his known ability and integrity into the Senate. To accomplish their object they must either divide the Democratic vote by encouraging Mr. Chalfant to run as an independent candidate and then vote in their own man or else concentrate their vote on Mr. Chalfant. This they seem willing to do if he will pledge himself to sustain Geary, and go for the XVth Amendment, which virtually introduces negro suffrage into Pennsylvania.

Has Mr. Chalfant made these pledges? Events will determine. As to "dissatisfied Democrats" voting for the Radical candidate, we have only to say that in our opinion such men are few and far between. When the Democratic masses see that the choice is between a Radical and an honest incorruptible Democrat like Mr. Buckalew, they will not hesitate as to their choice. The very fact that the Legislative "Ring," the known "roosters" of that body are aiding Chalfant and opposing Buckalew is a sufficient indication to honest men as to which should be supported.

Senatorship.

Energetic efforts are being made by Chalfant and his backers outside the district to prevent a Republican nomination for Senator; with what success remains to be seen. He desires to run as a de facto Republican candidate and thus secure a respectable vote, which he cannot obtain from his own party. The consideration to be paid by him for Republican support is not yet openly mentioned, but has been suggested by one of his leading supporters to be the trading off of the State ticket for Chalfant votes.

Now Chalfant cannot sell out any considerable number of Democrats to the Republicans, though in his desperation he may attempt it, Like Satan when he tempted the Savior he does not own what he would offer to bestow, and Republicans would be silly fowl indeed to come into his net upon such a temptation. The parties to such a contract would be mutually cheated and disgraced.

We say confidently to all our readers that in no possible case can Chalfant come near an election. He cannot get a large Democratic vote and he cannot get the Republican vote in mass, both of which would be necessary to his success. He is distinctly the candidate of a corrupt ring, and he stands upon a corrupt vote given in conference, so that he cannot be strong before the people. After the publication of the papers we gave last week there is left no pretense even that he was nominated or that he has any equitable claim upon the voters of the district. He is simply a volunteer candidate without any real grievance and without any special fitness for office; and he is also in his present position, a representative and instrument of some of the worst men in the whole Commonwealth. These are the reasons why his defeat will be as just as it will be signal.

Geary on Geary.

We last week published the high compliment which Forney paid our next governor, Hon. Asa Packer, at the opening of the Lehigh University, and in order that our friend "obscurity" could not charge us with partiality and an undue suppression of the remarkable talents of the present governor, we publish this week the talented remarks of the governor on himself.

The compliments was paid by Geary on Geary, at the opening exercises of a school in this State, and although he has been clearly proven guilty of plagiarism, yet we are willing to vouch for this as purely original, as it was given to us by a man of truth and veracity who was present and heard it, and the sentiments expressed are so purely like the man that no one will doubt it. Any one who does may call at our office and we will furnish testimony to prove it. The remarks were as follows:

"He (Geary) would wish to urge the young men of this institution to set their mark high and strive for the goal; and it was not impossible but some of them might yet occupy the place he now occupied. And to the ladies he would say, that they should aim high and persevere, and strange as it might seem some one of them might yet occupy as high a position as Mrs. Geary occupied;"

That is a mighty good story, but would it not have been better to have let some one else tell it?—Montrose Democrat.

We can vouch for the truthfulness of the above statement. The incident occurred at this place on the occasion of laying the corner stone of the Normal School.

Two attempts have been made since the Senatorial Conference sat, to get the Democratic Standing Committee of Montour county to endorse Chalfant. Both were failures, as no quorum could be assembled. That Committee has taken no action on the subject.

WHY don't some of our country friends occasionally bring elder-berries to market. They are abundant, healthy, and make most excellent pies. If our subscribers don't know this, we we will give them a recipe.

CENTRALIA Sept. 14, 1869.

MR. EDITOR:—Last week our lively town was thrown into an unusual state of excitement. The parties that were Courting in Bloomsburg had just returned and of course such an important event should be duly celebrated. The ball was opened by Dr. Kunkel & Co. of "Lightning Killer" notority, he and his associates seated on a splendid rigging drawn by two horses paraded our principal streets, and played tunes to coax dollars from the sick, disabled and foolish. In the evening about dusk his lamps were lighted and his hired mouthpiece declared the virtues of his medicine. I know of no disease in the whole catalogue that he could not cure. But alas; there were no patients. This Kunkel must be a great misanthropist or philanthropist, I don't know which. He accomplished one grand object here, he gathered the crowd, this was just what was wanted at the time and it was done admirably and well, old and young, male and female, sick and lazy, without any discrimination of sex age or condition were huddled together on the side walks. This was the glorious moment; this capped the climax of anything I ever saw, an Irish Bag-piper as if by magic made his appearance in the vast assemblage, took a chair on top of a hogshead, and played a fine auld Irish air, "the Connaught man's rumble." This revived memories of the dear auld land. The side-walks served as convenient dancing halls on the occasion. The Doctor still praised his pain killer and announced it a ready cure for strained ankles, dislocations of the joints or any thing else. By this time a few good natured fellows tapped a barrel of Yuengling's XX Ale on the street; all drank freely and none appeared afraid to trip the light fantastic toe, who would under such circumstances? Not I.

But this was not all, a young couple had just taken contracts of each other for life, and this of course had to be duly commemorated by the younger classes of the community; tin cans, buckets, kettles and every conceivable instrument on which or by which more noise could be made was brought into action. The wildest excitement prevailed. The horses harnessed to vehicles danced as they passed the large crowds of people standing and dancing around the Doctor's wagon and the piper's hogshead. Steel left the medicine wagon and joined the dance. (He has been since discharged.) The ale was distributed very generously. The moon looked down calmly on the scene rollicking and frolicking as it was. All seemed pleased at their evening's entertainment. The police were well pleased with the spree and are anxious for another of the kind. We have very good policemen; if a man is arrested by one of them, three or four more will set him free for the fun of it. Every thing passed off quietly and orderly, no fights of any kind occurred; it was a jovial thing. Talk of your Boston Peace Baryolorem or Gettysburg dance they were nothing to be compared with this. If you don't believe me ask Dr. Kunkel. Jovially yours.

OBSERVER.

LERAYSVILLE, PA., Sept. 17, 1869.

Dear Captain:—As we are all interested in Railroads and especially new ones, I take the liberty of giving you a little sketch of the Excursion which came off on Thursday the 9th inst. over the Penna. & N. Y. R. R. from Wilkesbarre to Waverly. At 6 A.M. the train, comprising fifteen passenger cars, left Wilkesbarre, having on board our esteemed fellow citizen Hon. Asa Packer, Hon. George W. Woodward, and many other prominent citizens of the Lehigh and Wyoming Valleys, and proceeded along the Valley of the beautiful Susquehanna, receiving augmentations to the number of excursionists at every station. Numbers of citizens were at every station to welcome the arrival of the "Iron Horse" in their midst who is henceforth to be a daily visitor.

At Tunkhannock the fine Brass Band of that place put in an appearance to enliven the occasion, and we then proceeded to Laceyville, taking a large number of invited citizens and the Laceyville Cornet Band under the accomplished leadership of that prince of players, B. E. Wakeman, Esq. Arriving at Wysauking—the home of that champion of Railroad contractors and business men, Col. V. E. Piollet—the LeRaysville Brass Band and a goodly number of guests from the surrounding country here entered the cars, and then proceeded to Towanda, where amid the firing of cannon and waving handkerchiefs from the glad populace the train entered the town, and after taking a large number of gentlemen on board, proceeded to Waverly, the junction of the Penna. & N. Y. Railroad with the N. Y. & E. R. R., when after taking a few moment's rest and the splendid Silver Cornet Band from Elmira, we returned to Towanda and found our old friend, Col. John F. Means, Marshal of the day. We found Fire Companies, Linta and Franklin, also a large Reception Committee composed of the citizens of Towanda, waiting to usher us into the Public Square where a splendid repast was waiting to be discussed. After dinner speeches were called for from Hon. Asa Packer, Judge Woodward, Col. Piollet, Hon. Geo. Landon, Ex-P. M. Gen. Randall. All responded in some very appropriate remarks, and the meeting closed by a return to the cars in waiting to convey the tired excursionists on their home. At Wysauking and Towanda cheers were given for Packer and Piollet, and the opening of the Railroad is complete, regular trains commencing on Monday the 13th inst. The day will long be remembered by the inhabitants of this section and many good wishes and a long life was drank in flowing champagne to the Hon. Asa Packer and the Lehigh Valley R. R.

We are all glad to learn of the nomination of Hon. C. R. Buckalew to the State Senate, only regretting that there are likely to be so few in that body with the honesty and ability that he possesses. Very truly and hastily,

S. W. R.

MR. EDITOR:

DEAR SIR.—Thinking that it might be a matter of interest to some of your subscribers as well as to myself, I will ask for some information in regard to the tax law of this State. Can a man be compelled to pay tax who has not been a resident in the State one year. I am respectfully yours. H. B. C.

Any man who has property, or pursues an occupation within the State, is liable to a tax on the same—and it does not matter how long or short a time he has been a resident. He cannot vote however. That requires residence as well as taxes.

A GOOD SIGN.—The Scranton Republican pitches into Mr. Buckalew, defends the nomination of Chalfant, and hopes for the election of a Radical. We know, gentlemen, what hurts you, but you need not be alarmed. No Republican will ever represent this Senatorial District as constituted at present. Your abuse of Mr. Buckalew only strengthens him with the people.

State Senator.

HON. CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, OF COLUMBIA COUNTY.

The final action of the Senatorial conference held on Saturday last, in Northumberland, places on our ticket the honored name of Buckalew. We know that this will meet with the hearty approbation of the Democratic voters of our county. On Tuesday last, the Standing Committee of our county, by a unanimous vote, passed a resolution endorsing Mr. Buckalew's nomination, and pledged him the undivided support of this county. We publish, elsewhere, the proceedings of both the Conference and the Standing Committee.

The conferees of our nominee, W. P. Withington, Esq., deserve the thanks of the county for their course. Finding that their own, and of course first choice, could not succeed without greater protraction of conference, they cast their votes for Mr. Buckalew, in accordance with the wishes of a majority of the voters of this county. By this action they have shown themselves worthy of the confidence reposed in them, and Mr. Withington has won for himself, hosts of friends.—Sunbury Guard.

IN the absence of solid argument, the Radicals are abusing Asa Packer because he was born in Connecticut. It so happens that Williams, their candidate for the Supreme Court was born in the same State.

We do wish the Post Masters under this Administration would learn that they have no right to appropriate the COLUMBIAN to their own use, nor to detain it from our subscribers. The custom has become too frequent to be pleasant. The Polkville package, we are informed, does not reach that office every few weeks. There is no excuse for this. We mail the paper regularly, and if it fails to reach its destination, it is through the negligence or criminality of our post office officials. We must exempt our post-master here, whom we have always found careful and attentive.

THE COLUMN IN MOTION.—On next Saturday afternoon a Democratic meeting will be held at Jerseytown, and will be addressed by Hon. C. R. Buckalew, Gen. W. H. Brindle, R. F. Clark, Esq. and others.

On the evening of the same day (Sept. 25th) a meeting will be held at the Evansville School House, in Briarcreek township at which speeches will be made by E. H. Little, Gen. W. H. Ent and Col. John G. Freeze.

On Monday evening a meeting will be held at Dieterich's School House in Montour township, which will be addressed by able speakers.

We trust there will be a full attendance at these meetings. The campaign will be short, let us make it earnest.

At no time in the history of our County has a better ticket ever been presented for the suffrages of the people than that which the Democrats have nominated. For Governor we name a man who is the embodiment of honesty and integrity. For Judge an able lawyer, a fearless legislator, a Christian gentleman. For Senator, a man whose reputation is national, and whose stern integrity is unimpeached. For Representative, an earnest, untiring legislator, who never betrayed his constituents, nor belonged to the "ring." For Prothonotary, a soldier who won distinction on many a field, and whose ability and integrity never were questioned. For Register & Recorder, a man long identified with the County and her interests, a tried representative, and a man of popular address.

The balance of the ticket is no less worthy. As a whole it is irreproachable, and is in marked contrast to that presented by the opposition. In fact, the most of their candidates are unknown in their own locality.

Let us give this ticket a rousing majority. Bury discord. Forget private grievances for the time, and rally as one man on the 12th of October next, and we will elect our nominees from Governor down.

It is time for action and let that be our motto. If you believe in our principles work for them.

McNinch Items.

POLITE INTERCHANGE OF COURTESIES—On Wednesday of last week McNinch visited Chalfant, and the latter returned the call on the following Saturday. On Monday McNinch again visited Chalfant. The former, however, rode the freight train while his candidate patronized the regular line.

McNinch was at Philadelphia during our late Court and a case was continued on account of his absence. Did he go to get campaign funds from the "ring," or simply to settle the account of his conference vote?

AN INCIDENT:—Mr. McNinch after giving his treacherous vote in Conference on the 4th of September, went home in the night, leaving his hotel bill to be paid by the candidate he had betrayed. That bill was paid.

McNinch sought the position of Conferee with diligence and enlisted several friends to ask it for him of our Candidate, upon strong professions of fidelity and friendship. It now turns out he declared privately before he was appointed that he thought it could be managed to put a conferee upon our candidate. To accomplish his end he deceived his own friends and made them the unconscious instruments of his perfidy.

McNinch and Chalfant had one or more private interviews before the Conference met at Northumberland. The latter on one occasion came for the purpose to Catawissa. He progressed no further into the town than the former NcNinch store building where his confederate had his quarters.

Just before the last meeting of the Conference, McNinch, hearing that there was a design to have Mr. Pursel retake his seat in Conference as a Conferee from Northumberland, and supposing that he would eventually vote for Mr. Buckalew, went down to Danville upon a midnight journey and informed Chalfant. The latter told this to the Withingtons to excite their hostility against Mr. Buckalew and his friends and gave McNinch as his informant.

An interesting game of base ball was played in Catawissa on last Monday afternoon between two nines of the Catawissa Club, to decide who should have the honor of presenting to the Avondale Relief Fund a donation of $25 raised for that purpose by the members of the club. The sides were quite evenly matched, and the game on the whole a good one. The losing side excelled at the bat, but were weak in the field, allowing the winners to gain runs on poor hits. We were particularly pleased with the fielding of Messrs. Abbott, L. Eyre, Kline, Whitman and M. Brobst, while Messrs. Kline, Scott, L. Eyre, Stadler, Yetter, and W. Eyer proved their excellence at the bat. The following is the score.

THE YOUNG FOLKS.

Tom Thumb.

(Concluded.)

WHEN they came to the parson's house, Tom slipt through the window-bars into the room, and then called out as loud as he could bawl, "Will you have all that is here?" At this the thieves were frightened, and said, "Softly, softly! Speak low, that you may not awaken anybody." But Tom seemed as if he did not understand them, and bawled out again, "How much will you have? shall I throw it all out?" Now the cook lay in the next room; and hearing a noise she raised herself up in her bed and listened. Meantime the thieves were frightened, and ran off a little way; but at last they plucked up their hearts, and said, "The little urchin is only trying to make fools of us." So they came back and whispered softly to him, saying, "Now let us have no more of your roguish jokes; but throw us out some of the money." Then Tom called out as loud as he could, "Very well! hold your hands! here it comes."

The cook heard this quite plain, so she sprang out of bed, and ran to open the door. The thieves ran off as if a wolf was at their tails; and the maid, having groped about and found nothing, went away for a light. By the time she came back, Tom had slipt off into the barn; and when she had looked about and searched every hole and corner and found nobody, she went to bed, thinking she must have been dreaming with her eyes open

The little man crawled about in the hay-loft, and at last found a snug place to finish his night's rest in; so he laid himself down, meaning to sleep till daylight, and then find his way home to his father and mother. But alas! how woefully was he undone! what crosses and sorrows happen to us all in this world! The cook got up early before day-break, to feed the cows; and going straight to the hay-loft, carried away a large bundle of hay, with the little man in the middle of it, fast asleep. He still, however, slept on, and did not awake till he found himself in the mouth of the cow; for the cook had put the hay into the cow's rick, and the cow had taken Tom up in a mouthful of it. "Good lack-a-day!" said he, "how came I to tumble into the mill?" But he soon found out where he really was; and was forced to have all his wits about him, that he might not get between the cow's teeth, and so be crushed to death. At last down he went into her stomach. "It is rather dark here," said he; "they forgot to build windows in this room to let the sun in: a candle would be no bad thing."

Though he made the best of his bad luck, he did not like his quarters at all; and the worst of it was, that more and more hay was always coming down, and the space left for him became smaller and smaller. At last he cried out as loud as he could, "Don't bring me any more hay! Don't bring me any more hay!"

The maid happened to be just then milking the cow; and hearing some one speak, but seeing nobody, and yet being quite sure it was the same voice that she had heard in the night, she was so frightened that she fell off her stool, and overset the milk-pail. As soon as she could pick herself up out of the dirt, she ran off as fast as she could to her master the parson, and said, "Sir, sir, the cow is talking!" But the parson said, "Woman, thou art surely mad!" However, he went with her into the cow-house, to try and see what was the matter.

Scarcely had they set their foot on the threshold, when Tom called out, "Don't bring me any more hay! Then the parson himself was frightened; and thinking the cow was surely bewitched, told his man to kill her on the spot. So the cow was killed, and cut up; and the stomach, in which Tom lay, was thrown out upon a dunghill.

Tom soon set himself to work to get out, which was not a very easy task; but at last, just as he had made room to get his head out, fresh ill-luck befell him. A hungry wolf sprang out, and swallowed up the whole stomach, with Tom in it, at one gulp, and ran away.

Tom, however, was still not disheartened; and thinking the wolf would not dislike having some chat with him as he was going along, he called out, "My good friend, I can show you a famous treat." "Where's that?" said the wolf. "In such and such a house," said Tom, describing his own father's house: "you can crawl through the drain into the kitchen, and then into the pantry, and there you will find cakes, ham, beef, cold chicken, roast pig, apple-dumplings, and every thing that your heart can wish."

The wolf did not want to be asked twice; so that very night he went to the house and crawled through the drain into the kitchen, and then into the pantry, and ate and drank there to his heart's content. As soon as he had had enough, he wanted to get away; but he had eaten so much that he could not go out by the same way that he came in.

This was just what Tom had reckoned upon; and now he began to set up a great shout, making all the noise he could. "Will you be easy?" said the wolf: "you'll awaken everybody in the house if you make such a clatter."

"What's that to me?" said the little man: "you have had your frolic, now I've a mind to be merry myself;" and he began again, singing and shouting as loud as he could.

The woodman and his wife being awakened by the noise, peeped through a crack in the door; but when they saw that a wolf was there, you may well suppose that they were sadly frightened; and the woodman ran for his axe, and gave his wife a scythe. "Do you stay behind," said the woodman, "and when I have knocked him on the head you must rip him up with the scythe." Tom heard all this said, and cried out, "Father, father! I am here, the wolf has swallowed me." And his father said, "Heaven be praised! we have found our dear child again;" and he told his wife not to use the scythe for fear she should hurt him. Then he aimed a great blow, and struck the wolf on the head, and killed him on the spot; and when he was dead they cut open his body, and set Tommy free. "Ah!" said the father, "what fears we have had for you!" "Yes, father," answered he: "I have travelled all over the world, I think, in one way or other, since we parted; and now I am very glad to come home and get fresh air again." "Why, where have you been?" said his father. "I have been in a mouse-hole,—and in a snail-shell,—and down a cow's throat,—and in the wolf's belly; and yet here I am again, safe and sound."

"Well," said they, "you are come back, and we will not sell you again for all the riches in the world."

Then they hugged and kissed their dear little son, and gave him plenty to eat and drink, for he was very hungry; and they fetched new clothes for him, for his old ones had been quite spoiled on his journey. So Master Thumb stayed at home with his father and mother, in peace; for though he had been so great a traveller, and had done and seen so many fine things, and was fond enough of telling the whole story, he always agreed that, after all,—There's no place like HOME!

FARMER'S COLUMN.

Our Fairs.

It is gratifying to observe, in view of the increasing interest felt in our autumnal exhibitions, that year after year, a large number of persons become contributors to them, and a large number of spectators visit them. People of all professions and pursuits, within a circuit of ten to fifteen miles, attend them. They are annual "exchanges" where the whole community meet face to face with friendly greetings, and interchange sentiments and opinions incident to their calling, as well as upon the current subjects of public interest. We venture to say that every one who contributes to these fairs, whether he is successful or not in obtaining premiums, returns to his home in a joyous state of mind, from the consciousness that he has assisted in sustaining the honor and dignity of the great calling in which he is engaged; and if unsuccessful in exhibiting any thing better than all the rest, he at least did his best and was content.

There are very few counties in Pennsylvania which cannot get up a creditable show, did all their best farmers heartily unite to effect it. This will be more apparent when we observe that never more than a very small portion of the farmers of a county actively unite—that is by contributions of some kind, in accomplishing these exhibitions. Not one-fourth of a county—we can say with safety—is represented at these displays—except by mere personal attendance. Many—three-fourths of all those present—come to see the contributions made by others, and their commentaries upon what they see are not very complimentary to themselves, inasmuch as it frequently consists of assertions as to the superiority of their own animals or products, which they had at home, but which their want of spirit, added to the dread of a little labor and expense, interposed to keep there!

Nevertheless, there is good encouragement to persevere in these Annual Agricultural Fairs; yearly the feeling is increasing in their favor, by an accession to the membership of the associations as well as to the number of contributors. In a little while nearly every good farmer in the respective counties will be enrolled in their behalf; and if all cannot become active members and contributors, they can give their countenance, influence and moral support.—Germantown Telegraph.

A GOOD ROTATION. The following rotation of crops, adopted by Peter Hodson, of Venice, Cayuga, N.Y., although similar to that in use by some other farmers, is so good a one for retaining or increasing the land, that we think it worthy the consideration of our readers. The soil on which this rotation is used is a good medium loam, neither very light, nor of the heaviest or strongest character.

First year, corn or sod.

Second year, barley, followed by clover, not cut nor pastured, but allowed to rot down.

Third year, clover plowed under when full grown, and after pulverizing the top of the inverted sod with a two-horse cultivator, sowing with wheat.

Fourth year, wheat.

Fifth year, clover and timothy meadow.

Sixth year, pasture.

It will be seen that only two tillage crops are allowed in succession, the owner remarking that three always make the land "sleepy." A small crop of oats is raised only for home use. A free use of litter for the stable cattle and horses, mixing all the materials uniformly together in heaps, enables him to manufacture about 400 two horse loads of manure per annum from a farm of about 150 acres. This he applies for the benefit of the corn crop the year before it is planted, spreading it broadcast upon the grass about mid-summer or earlier. He finds no detriment from any supposed evaporation of the manure during the heat of summer; the grass grows with more vigor, and the soluble part of the manure becomes gradually diffused among the roots and through the soil. He has found the best result when the manure is spread as early as the month of June. By this time the winter accumulations have rotted enough, and the long fibre is broken.

SETTING OUT STRAWBERRY BEDS.—Strawberry plants can now be set out from the middle of August to the end of September. It is true August is generally a very dry month, but in case of the absence of rain the newly planted beds must be watered every day or two until they have become established.

The bed should not be in a damp situation or the soil heavy. Dig deep, pulverize finely, and apply a pretty heavy dose of good barnyard manure. Let the divisions be about three and a half feet in width and as long as may be desirable. Set the plants about eighteen inches apart, insert them in the ground firmly but not too deeply, and then keep clear of all grass and weeds.

As to the varieties we should choose for our own planting the following:

"Triumph," "Russell," and "Hovey;" and if we wished another, Jocunda.—They should be planted in this wise in making up a full bed, with half a dozen or a dozen divisions: 1 Triumph, 2 Jocunda, 3 Hovey, 4 Russell. In this way a fine crop is assured with as much certainty as anything can be. The last of November protect the plants with a light covering of straw the first year, after that if needed light manure may be substituted as a covering.

A half crop may be expected the first season. A mulch of straw cut two or three inches long will keep the ground moist and cool, which this berry likes, and smother the weeds. This should be applied the first part of April. An application of spent tan is also excellent.

DON'T INTEND ASTONISHING THE WORLD PUMPING OIL, BUT WATER.

KAY'S PUMPS,

USED AND ADMIRED BY EVERY ONE.

Especially the ladies, being truly the ladies' friend, working much lighter and easier than the old tree pump. They don't make such a slop and don't collect so much ice around the floor in the winter, the water not running so long after pumping. Having taken the first premium at every fair they have been exhibited; also recommended by all insurance Companies, on account of getting out more water in less time and with less labor, they throwing a barrel of water a minute. All we ask is a trial, and we are confident we can please you.

Again: It is more simple, it having no lower box packed with tow and tallow, which is the greatest trouble in the tree pump. Another great advantage is, that when you get a new pump you are not compelled to drink for a whole year

PITCH PINE OR BLACK OAK WATER.

Our pump being made of wild cucumber wood, which is free from taste, also lasts longer in water. It has also many other advantages, which can only be found out by using them. They have been in use in the northern part of the State for twenty years; selling rapidly everywhere.

DRUGS & MEDICINES.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

This INFALLIBLE REMEDY does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the Lungs as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic catarrh, as thousands can testify. "Cold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss or impairment of the sense of taste, smell or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, when caused by the violence of catarrh, as they all frequently are. I offer in good faith a standing reward of $500 for a case of catarrh that I cannot cure.
